Here we give some examples of the noisy label and the generated label and their corresponding dice coefficients from PROMISE12. We could notice noisy labels contain more information than generated labels and thus the model could benefit more from them.